

Counselling Supervision

Are you looking for an experienced counselling supervisor who also has expertise in marketing, social media and has a successful counselling practice?

Becky Wright has worked as a counsellor since 1992. She believes this experience has helped her to prepare counsellors for therapeutic work in private practice and the business skills needed to enable their counselling practice to grow.

Becky Wright has trained with CASCADE Training Associates, she offers supervision to counsellors who come from a variety of theoretical orientations. Her training is in both individual and group supervision and she would be happy to facilitate a small group in order to offer a more cost effective option.

Becky said, "I see supervision as a participative exercise where both the supervisee and supervisor look at what happens in the therapy room in a creative way. By focusing on the therapeutic alliance, I attempt to offer high support and an environment conducive to productive challenge in order to enhance the effectiveness of the supervisee."
